

Year 5 Blog – Week Commencing 17.07.2023: Supreme Sewers!

Year 5 have worked incredibly hard this week; they have used all the skills they have learned this year and incorporated them into their final piece of writing about Africa and how Africa is portrayed by the media. They used a range of conjunctions and sentence openers to create complex sentences, while making sure there was cohesion between and within each paragraph.

In maths pupils discussed the difference between volume and capacity, they used prior knowledge to estimate capacity and calculate volume. The pupils worked really hard and were successful in these lessons.

In Art pupils designed their African blankets and they have used the various stitches taught over the last weeks to create some wonderful blankets. I have been really impressed with the accuracy of stitches used to create detailed motifs. The pupils really enjoyed themselves and some have even surprised themselves at how well they have taken to this new skill.

This week many pupils have brought in examples of the homework projects they completed. The year 5 team have been really impressed with how hard these pupils work on their projects.

On behalf of the year 5 team, I would like to thank the pupils for their hard work and resilience this year. They have worked wonderfully well. I hope you all have a restful and enjoyable summer break.
