

Year 5 Blog – Week Commencing 05.06.2023: The Lion King & African Landscapes

In our first week back Year 5 have completed some fantastic work.

In maths pupils have been working on adding and subtracting decimals.

In writing we have started our next unit of writing where pupils will be writing a narrative story about the Lion King. The pupils have enjoyed describing Simba and a new character through similes, metaphors and expanded noun phrases. In addition to this, they have enjoyed watching a few short clips from the film to help them with their description.

In computing, pupils learnt about search engines and how to refine search's when looking for information online.

In Science and History, we have conducted various research. In science, the pupils learnt and researched about David Attenborough and Jane Goodall, displaying their work through single- and double-page spreads. In history, the pupils conducted some research on Egyptian Gods and created a fact file.

Finally, the pupils completed their African landscape painting which they have thoroughly enjoyed.

A brilliant first week back Year 5!
