

Year 5 Blog – Week Commencing 22.05.2023: To Clone or not to Clone?

Year 5 have had another exciting week.

In English we have been creating travel brochure encouraging holiday makers to explore Africa.

Pupils considered the impact holiday brochures and advertisements influence people into making a decision. They then researched their own place of interest and created reasons why we should visit.

In Science pupils considered the advantages and disadvantages of plants being able to self-reproduce (create genetically identical clones). They created a detailed Venn diagram outlining these advantages and disadvantages.

Art this week consisted of pupils putting into practice the various paint strokes they were practicing last week as they created sun rise image set in an African Savanah.

In reading pupils have really got to grips with how to answer more complex reading questions and how they can use evidence from the text to enhance their answers and create more detailed answers.
