Hugo Cabret Screenplays

This week we have finished off our writing to entertain screenplays. We have now written the opening sequence of The Invention of Hugo Cabret. We've put a lot of effort into this piece of writing, making sure we included expanded noun phrases, fronted adverbials and show not tell.

We published our work by typing them up on Google classroom, please take a look on there!

We also got to finish up our Dyson Project inventions this week! We decorated our cardboard models with paint to make them look eye catching and we are looking forward to hearing Dysons feedback!

In RE this week we looking at the difference between how Christian's and non-religious people celebrate Christmas.
