

Year 4 Blog - Week commencing 10.03.23: Perfect Podcasts!

This week at Kents Hill has been assessment week. Miss Roberts, Miss Cartwright and Mrs James would like to say a huge well done to our fantastic year 4s who have worked so hard on all of their assessments this week!

In science this week, we got to finish our unit of working! This time we got to learn about the human impacts on environments such as deforestation, urbanisation and global warming. Once we had learnt about the different impacts, we picked one to create an informative poster on! We worked hard on the presentation of our books and put in lots of effort during this lesson.

In computing this week, we got to record our very own podcasts! We explored the website 'TwistedWave' and learnt how to use this online tool to record our podcasts. We got to read out our plastic pollution speech's that we had worked on during our writing lessons. Some of these have been uploaded onto our google classroom so you can take a listen!

4LJ also went on their rescheduled local area litter picks this week! They walked around the streets that surround our school and gave it a tidy up, they collected several bags of rubbish!
