

Year 4 Blog - Week commencing 06.03.23: Save the marine animals!

This week in year 4 we were learning about the BP Oil Spill during our history lessons. We were very interested to hear what happened during April 2010 and couldn't believe the awful impact the oil spill had on marine animals! Once learning about the events, we create a timeline of these events, making sure to put them into chronological order.

In our writing lessons we finished our plastic pollution speeches! We've worked so hard on them and pushed ourselves to include as many persuasive features as possible! We're really proud of how they've turned out and enjoyed reading them out in our most dramatic voices once they were finished!

4MR were lucky enough to go on their local area litter pick this week! Can you believe we filled 3 bags of rubbish on that short walk around the roads near our school! 4LJ and 4JC can't wait until the weather clears up so that they can go and collect more!
