

Year 4 Blog - Week commencing 27.02.23: Wonderful World Book Day

This week we got to celebrate World Book Day! We had so much fun taken part in our challenges! We were all given an 'I see me book' to create some door art with... now the Year 4 doors are finally filled with brilliant examples of work based on these books. Some children wrote book reviews, others did illustrations based on the stories and some even wrote their own short stories because they were so inspired!

We were also set the challenge of finding the most interesting ways to read... some of us were SO creative!

This week we also started our new piece of writing on plastic pollution. We started by writing our opening paragraph, making sure we included emotive language, rhetorical questions and the power of three. We are so excited to add to these and see how our writing comes out next week!
