

Year 3 Blog - Week Commencing 30.01.23: Measuring our school

This week Year 3 have enjoyed learning more about the Tudors, Henry VIII and Elizabeth I. They have finished off their biographies about Henry VIII and have begun learning more about Elizabeth I.

We really enjoyed our parents and carers coming in for the art workshop and gallery around the school. We enjoyed teaching our families about Alma Thomas and her 'Alma Stripes' style of art.

In maths this week, we have started our length and perimeter unit. We have had a go at measuring different places around the school using metre rulers. We have also been comparing millimetres, centimetres and metres and thinking about which would be the most appropriate unit of measure. Here are some pictures of us doing it!
